Within the framework of the Human Act Prize 2023, there have been many projects that have brought inspiration and strongly aroused the desire to contribute one's part to society in each person's heart.

MC Vinh Phu: "The Human Act Prize 2023 journey and the award night have changed the way I do my job"

FAS Angel captain rushed into duty right after the Human Act Prize 2023 gala: "We need to make more efforts after being honored"

5 projects were honored in the Sustainability Project category of the Human Act Prize 2023

On the evening of December 11, at Hoan Kiem Lake Theater, Hanoi, the Human Act Prize successfully organized a gala night awarding awards to individuals and organizations that have made positive contributions to the cause. society through prestigious community initiatives and projects, bringing long-term and sustainable effects. The award is organized by Nhan Dan newspaper, with the participation of the Ministry of Labor, War Invalids and Social Affairs, the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment, the Ministry of Science and Technology and the coordination of the Joint Stock Company VCCorp has recently received very positive support from the community.

From the 35 projects selected for the Final round, the Human Act Prize 2023 Community Action Awards Gala honored 28 best projects and ideas in 7 important categories including: Idea Category for the community, Timely Projects, Promising Projects, Enduring Projects, Inspirational Projects, Sustainable Projects, Human Act Prize Category.

In particular, the Inspirational Project category was awarded to 5 initiatives by Mr. Pham Tat Thang, Member of the Party Central Committee, Standing Deputy Head of the Central Mass Mobilization Committee and Mr. Que Dinh Nguyen, Deputy Editor-in-Chief of Nhan Dan Newspaper. Aunts: LOAN Fund, Heart for Children Program (Viettel Telecom in collaboration with Vietnamese Heart Fund - Vietnam Television); FAS Angel Relief Team; SCI Salt Cancer Initiative and Raise Children Project.

LOAN Foundation (LOAN Stiftung) was founded by female writer Isabelle Müller from the desire to replace her Vietnamese biological mother - Loan's mother - to send gratitude to her homeland by supporting education. The establishment of LOAN fund has helped the most vulnerable children in Vietnam have a better life and look forward to a better future.

100% of support cases are actually checked by the Fund and the impact on children is monitored. In 7 years, the Fund has implemented 39 projects in 8 provinces and cities. Nearly 5,000 Vietnamese children benefited from direct help, 23 orphans and other children found sponsors in Germany.

Female writer Isabelle Müller

At the award ceremony, female writer Isabelle Müller emotionally shared: "Being here and receiving this award is a great honor for me today. This award has great meaning not only to our foundation but also to our team of volunteers and families, especially for the precious memories of Dau Thi Cuc's mother - the person after whom the foundation is named."

How proud to be Vietnamese. We are also very happy that the Human Act Prize is constantly spreading the message of sharing with children in difficult circumstances not only in the Vietnamese community but also to the whole world."

Talking about future plans and intentions, the female writer said: "We will continue with our current work. Little by little, we will set foot in many distant lands to bring better educational opportunities to Vietnamese children."

Heart for You is a humanitarian charity program implemented by Viettel Telecom in collaboration with the Vietnamese Heart Foundation - Vietnam Television since 2008. This is one of the longest-term community projects in Vietnam. Vietnam.

This is the first program implemented to call for support from the entire population, to support free surgery for poor children with congenital heart disease under 16 years old in Vietnam, support to improve medical capacity, and organize events. screening activities for congenital heart disease for children. Each successful heart surgery instills a thousand more hopes.

The FAS Angel relief team was founded by Mr. Pham Quoc Viet after his own unfortunate accident. With a small initial number of members, up to now, FAS Angle has up to 150 volunteer members who are assigned to work on roads where accidents often occur every night to promptly help people.

Not only stopping in Hanoi, the team has continuously developed and replicated the model to other provinces and cities across the country. To date, FAS Angel has participated in providing first aid in more than 17,000 cases with more than 10,000 people saved and the rescue cost was 0 VND. In particular, the team also saved 12 people in the Khuong Ha mini apartment fire last year.

For Mr. Quoc Viet - FAS Angle captain, attending the Human Act Prize Gala night is a great honor for himself as well as the FAS Angel relief team. He emotionally shared:

“I wear my uniform wherever I go, it’s my pride! The uniform shirt is easy to wear and easy to coordinate with different types of outfits. I design it so that many people can wear it, including men and women, young and old, regardless of appearance. And they can be easily stowed in the trunk or pocket.”

Because many incidents happen on the road, the shirt will help people around identify first aiders in chaotic scenes, thereby helping to protect them as well as the victim."

The SCI Salt Cancer Initiative was founded by "warrior" Thuy Muoi in 2020, operating with a common purpose for the cancer patient community including active support in terms of spirit, knowledge and treatment conditions. the most effective way.

Even though she is gone, her legacy of the Salt Cancer Initiative still persists, connecting nearly 30,000 patients, relatives, and people interested in cancer and providing and updating accurate medical knowledge. latest for cancer patients, creating opportunities for doctors and patients to connect, share as well as prepare both knowledge and psychology for family members.

At the gala night, Nguyen Hien Mi (SCI president) could not hide his joy and honor: "This is an extremely meaningful award not only for me personally but also for everyone in the group up to now. And the award also proves that, even if Ms. Thuy passes away, the fire she left behind will continue to be preserved forever. Not only is it an award, but it is also timely recognition and a source of motivation for those who have been and will continue on their journey with the community."

Ms. Nguyen Hien Mi

Along with that, Ms. Hien Mi expressed her surprise about the careful preparation and investment process in all aspects of the Organizing Committee as well as the Human Act Prize implementation team for each category, organization and project. "The award evaluated fairly, accurately and transparently informed the community about the projects." - Ms. Mi's sharing is also what the award always wants to aim for.

Here, she also shared SCI's future activities: "SCI's activities have been held in many provinces and cities nationwide. The following year SCI attended the world's largest cancer conference. I hope to be able to bring the stories of cancer patients as well as the cancer patient community in Vietnam to and inspire more people around the world."

The Nurturing Children Project was launched by Hoang Hoa Trung in 2014 to become a volunteer project with the ability to unleash the enormous power of the community, and is also the project with the largest scale of implementation to date.

To date, the project has built an operating platform for 60,000 adoptive parents across the country, adopting 95,000 highland children. There are also 450 public works, an average of 15-20 schools built each year as well as many other necessary facilities provided to schools.

Talking about the feelings when being present at the Gala night of the awards ceremony, as one of the projects that is highly appreciated and has the potential to win awards, Mr. Hoang Hoa Trung said, the happiest feeling is still when meeting brothers who have been together for many years through volunteer activities as well as those who have good and new projects - "That's what I want most when coming to today's gala night."

Lau Nguyen Huong Giang - a member of the Nurturing Children project could not hide his joy and nervousness when receiving the Human Act Prize: "After this event, we have more joy and motivation to continue working," and contribute more to the community, building an increasingly professional Raising Children ecosystem and contributing more to society. In the meantime, we continue to promote projects related to sustainable education such as the project of providing laptops for ethnic minority students; Computer room projects, school construction, boarding house construction... We hope to receive support from the community."

Sharing her impressions of the first Human Act Prize, Ms. Huong Giang shared: "The award's organization process is very professional, leaving a big mark in the community of volunteer organizations and also leaving a lasting impression on the community." The impression is that Vietnam not only develops individuals individually, but also individuals contribute to the development of society."
