Launching the novel Just One Heartbeat Away from You (published by Ho Chi Minh City General Publishing House) is a new mark in the volunteer efforts with the LOAN Stiftung Fund of Vietnamese writer Isabelle Müller.

Ms. Isabelle donated books to students of Hope School, Da Nang city.

Writer Isabelle said that through the launch of her new work Just a Heartbeat Away in her hometown of Vietnam, she wants to share the relationship between humans and the universe, emphasizing the role of human faith. In overcoming difficulties, letting go of fear and finding happy energy in your thoughts and words. The author highlights life experiences in the journey to determine each person's nature and ego.

Through the story of two main characters including Anna - a young woman who experienced extreme suffering to the point of attempting suicide, and Marc - a young plastic surgeon in a coma after a car accident, the work metaphorically questioning whether everything in life is predetermined or whether we can change the future with a new perspective on things.

Here, Anna and Marc meet each other by chance, fall in love and help each other. But the challenge for them is to find the true meaning of life, the happiness they once felt in their nihilistic subconscious.

Novel "Just a heartbeat away from you"
